CHARLEROI BOY IS GIVEN A COMMISSION IN REGULAR ARMY

In Service Less Than Three Years, but Wins His Shoulder Straps

AN INSTRUCTOR OF RECRUITS

William J. Mathias, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Mathias of Washington avenue, has been advanced to the grade of Second Lieutenant in the Regular Army and asigned to duty with the 32nd Infantry, at Schofield Barracks, Honolulu.

Lieutenant Mathias enlisted in the United States Regulars in Pittsburg about two and one-half years ago. He was sent to Columbus barracks, where he received some preliminary training, after which he was sent to Schofield Barracks, Honolulu, and assigned to Company F., First Infantry. By strict attention to duty he won promotion, first to be a Corporal and later a Sergeant in his Company. Taking advantage of opportunities for study, which is given to every enlisted man, he prepared himself for a commission and at an examination held a short time ago he passed in the most cereditable manner and was recommended for a commission which has since been granted to him.

After being commissioned he was assigned to service with the Thirty-second regimentand is now doing duty training recruits. It is likely that his stay in the Hawaiian Islands will be prolonged because of the special care which the government is taking in training men for army service and as Liuet Mathias is considered a very proficient officer, it is likely he will be retained for some time on this detail.

His many Charleroi friends are more than pleased to learn of the success which has attended the efforts of Mr. Mathias in this field of action, which will likely be his chosen profession in the future.

DR. M'KAY HAS LEFT FOR TRAINING AT FT. OGLETHORPE

Dr. E. W. McKay left this morning for Ft. Oglethorpe, Ga., where he will enter upon a period of training preparatory to serving in the Reserve Medical Corps of the United States Army. This preliminary training will last for a period of three months, after which the Doctor, who holds a commission as First Lieutenant, will be asigned to one of the new National Army regiments to be raised this fall.

UNTIL FURTHER NOTICE
CONSERVE THE WATER SUPPLY

Owing to boiler trouble the Tri-Cities Water company is experiencing considerable difficulty in maintaining the water supply. We urge upon all our consumers to be as saving as possible with the water until we get in better shape, which we hope will be within the next few days. Request has been made to the borough to use no water for street purposes until the situation is relieved.. All mills and other industries are asked to give this grave situation the widest co-operation.

BRINGS ACTION FOR DAMAGES

First Suit Against Railways Company as Results of Mingo Accident

NEGLIGENCE IS CHARGED

The first damage suit as a result of the headon collision of two interurban passenger cars near Mingo Falls has been filed in the Washington county courts against the Pittsburg Railways company. The collision occurred on the evening of July 2nd, between Mingo Falls and Crookham stop on the Charleroi division in which two men lost their lives.

On Friday Miss Alice Heisey of that the plaintiff was a pasenger on one of the wrecked cars, through her attorneys, brought suit against the Pittsburg Railways company to recover $10,000 damages for alleged injuries sustained in this accident.

The statement of claim sets forth that the plaintiff was a pasenger on the car bound from Pittsburg to Charleroi. Then the two cars collided near Mingo, the plaintiff alleges, she sustained a great nervous shock, her left shoulder, neck, back, spine, arms and legs were injured, and she sustained internal injuries, all of which may be permanent. As a result of these injuries the plaintiff alleges that she is and will be unable to work and has suffered great pain.

The defendant company is charged with negligence in controlling and operating the cars and in allowing a work train to collide with the car which the plaintiff was in, after the two cars had collided, when she was again thrown violently. The defendant is further charged with further negligence in failing to have the switch lights in proper working order in operating cars at a high rate of speed and through the alleged neglect of the motorman of the three cars in failing to keep close watch in front while running.

D. A. Dixon has gone to Pittsburg to spend the week-end.

SLACKERS WILL NOT ESCAPE BECAUSE OF FAILURE TO REPORT

Those registrants who are under the impression they will be able to escape responsibility because they gave a wrong address, are entitled to another guess. In Donora it is estimated that 40 per cent of the notices sent eligibles to report for physical examination preliminary to being called for service in the national army, were undelivered because the addresses were fictitious.

The exemption board of the Fifth district is not worrying over the situation. The names of those who do not appear, when mailed notices, will be sent to the state authorities, which will include all such slackers on the regular army rolls and notify them to report to the military authorities in five days. If they disobey, they are classed as deserters and will be dealt with accirdingly.

Those who are under the impression that they "pulled" something smart had better change their tactics at once. Once they refuse to rport for examination, when summoned they are automaically enlisted in the army, and then overnment authorities will hunt them out and compel them to serve. The list of men summoned for examination next Friday is as follows:

RESIGNS AS INSPECTOR

James O. Watson Resigns as County Inspector of Roads

HAS BETTER POSITION IN VIEW

James O. Watson, of North Charleroi, who has been highway inspector for the county in the eastern district, sent in his resignation two weeks ago to the board of county commissioners to take effect on the first day of August. At a meeting of the board held on Thursday the resignation was accepted.

In his letter to the commissioners Mr. Watson stated that "my leaving your employ is due to the fact that my expense accounts have been connually held up in the controller's office and also to the fact that I have a better position in view." In accepting the resignation a vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Watson for his efficient and faithful service during the period he was employed by the county.

Mr. Watson received $80 per month as his compensation and in addition to performing the duty of inspector, also acted as chauffeur for the road truck, so as to cut down expenses at this time. However, he did not care to be continually in court which thecounty official took to disquestion of expense account, actions which thecounty official took to discommode him as well as embarrass his father, County Commissioner Jno. O. Watson, and he therefore concluded to resign.

John Williard Gadzuski

John Williard, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. John Gadznski, of Lock No. Four, died this morning at 5 a. m., aged six months. Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, conducted by Rev. E. N. Duty, Interment in Belle Vernon cemetery.

Other Communities Are in Greater Need of Her Services

REQUEST FROM MR. M'KEE

According to arrangements made some time ago it had been planned to have a State College demorstrator for the canning classes next week but Mr. McKee, county agriculturist wishes Charleroi to surrender the promised two-day assistance to some other place more in need of instruction. He considers Charleroi very fortunate in having the services of Miss Pipes who had her training at Drexel Institute, Philadelphia, and who has had several years experience in teaching. He asserts she can give the same instruction as any demonstrator he could be able to send out, and as there are so many communities more in need, Charleroi gladly relinquishes her claim.

Miss Pipes will, therefore continue her practical help talks every Wednesday and Thursday at the high school building for the month of August and to these meetings a most cordial invitation is extended to the ladies of Charleroi.

One of the ladies interesed in this movement says that so far the classes have been very interesting and have been enjoyed although [illegible] of the pr[illegible] ed. The [illegible] pe[illegible] The [illegible] qualified to do this work [illegible] and [illegible] sick [illegible] that the women have been successful in their home canning will attend the classes in order to assist in this community canning and give the benefit of their experience to others. When it is considered that about fifty jars of foodstuffs have been conserved at these clases, with but few to help, the possibilities of the movement are very evident.

Any one having a surplus supply in their gardens are invited to send it to the high school building on Wednesday and Thursday of each week, and it will be properly taken care of.

REORGANIZED CHURCH IS HOLDING TENT MEETINGS

The Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints is holding a series of tent meetings at Lock No. Four, with Elder Booker in charge. A number of very interesting topics will be discussed by the speakers, and a cordial invitation is extended to the public to attend.

BEGIN WORK OF REBUILDING TIPPLE AT THE BLAINE MINE

The Diamond Coal and Coke company began work Friday morning clearing away the debris at the Blain mine preparatory to rebuilding the tipple which was destroyed by fire on Thursday. The work will be rushed with all possible speed, in order to have the structure ready for service early in the fall. The Diamond Coal company, like all other coal corporations, is extremely busy at the present time, and has an abundance of orders for fuel that must be filled with the least possible delay. The mine will be operated by rail while the river tipple is rebuilding.

OUR ABUNDANCE

It is estimated that there are 1500 gardens in Charleroi this year and it is safe to presume that, owing to the superabundance of foodstuffs that will be raised there might be some of it go to waste. Many of those owning gardens this year are turning them to financial profit, which is a commendable thing to do, as it not only adds to the exchequer of the owner, but likewise is confering a favor on those who are not so fortunately situated as to be able to raise garden truck.

However in this abundance which has come to us locally, it would assist general conditions materially if the owners of gardens, rather than allow any of the product to go to waste, to either donate it, or sell it at a reasonable figure to the good ladies of the community who are interesting themselves in the canning of foodstuffs and who are instrumental in holding the canning classes every week in the high school building.

The law of supply and demand will control foodstuff prices, and it is not to be expected that the present high figures will be maintained all fall, when the crops are being harvested, for then the abundance will be seen. Moreover, the national food supply bill is going to cut some figure in the market, and government supervision is going to prevent boarding, so that it looks as if the consumer was going [redacted] better show for his dollar [redacted] who have [redacted] gardens will [redacted] the community a great benefit. Out of all abundance much ought to be saved. And by conserving our food supply we are aiding our government in the great undertaking in which it is now engaged.

A GREAT MISTAKE

The reflecting American will be sorry to learn that no names of States will remain attached to the National Guard now taken into the Federal service and that none will appear in the designations of regiments formed out of the selective draft. In this ruling may be seen the influence of regular army officers, but the civilian of the War Department ought to appreciate the value of State pride and rivalry in war. Our early confederation of independent States has long been welded into a nation and we are long past the era when State pride took precedence to national but the very foundations of our governmental system still rest upon the separate existence our numerous commonwealths, each within its own distinct boundaries, each known by its name, and each within certain limitations free to govern itself. And each of these separate States has a just right to the fame of the achievements of its sons in war.

The value of the stimulation of such rivalry and the right of local proprietorship are recognized even in England, a country far more consolidated than ours and with much less reasons for local designations in its military. Yet there are British regiments carrying the names of the mother counties of Sussex, Lancashire and the rest. We are all Americans first, but we are also Pennsylvanians, Georgians, Kansans, etc., and something is lost that is ours of right and that is of distinct value when the sons of any State are submerged in mere [illegible] going to war only as the [illegible] artillery or the two hundred infantry. The picture is blurred, the inspiration is impaired. [illegible] ruling is contrary to both [illegible] British precedent, it is [illegible] but a loss and it ought to be reversed even at the eleventh hour.

[illegible] ought to be somewhat multiplied roasting from both the [illegible] man and from the public.

Airplanes have been described as both as a modern army's eyes and as its cavalry. With $640,000,000 appropriated for the purpose we ought in time to be sufficiently well suplied with these necessaries.

Fur Bearing Animals.

The fur trade in this country has grown to such proportions as regards its business value that naturally the concern of those engaged in it is directed to its permanency. Curiously enough the prevalent opinion that fur bearing animals are first decreased in numbers is not correct as regards those animals which furnish the bulk of the [illegible] trade.

There are a number of fur bearing animals which cannot exist in civilized and thickly settled countries and which consequently are fast dying out. But muskrats, coons, skunks and some others seem to thrive and multiply in spite of civilization for such old and thickly settled states as New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio still contribute largely to the fur trade especially in [illegible] skins. Should the time come when these animals cannot be had [illegible] in their wild state it is not [illegible] that they will be selectively bred for their furs.—New York Times.

Wit of Joseph Choate.

[illegible] Choate and Bidwell, [illegible] was a beautiful voice [illegible] and his [illegible] was as genuine as [illegible]. They now and then [illegible] with humor, as when [illegible] Choate was asked to make [illegible] college building [illegible] Mr. Choate [illegible] painful satisfaction in saddling it [illegible] be kind enough to be kind careful [illegible] Speaking once at a boys' [illegible] three of whose graduates had [illegible] as his secretaries when he was [illegible] ambassador, he delighted his audience by his praise of these secretaries. After enjoying the pleasure of masters and boys Mr. Choate wound up by saying something like this: "Perhaps I ought to add that all I ask of a secretary is that he shall keep out of my way and shave every day."—New Republic.

Surmounting the Impossible.

It has been the experience of every forester as he goes about the country to be told that a certain mountain is impassable, that a certain trail cannot be traveled, that a certain stream cannot be crossed and to find that mountain, trail and stream can all be passed with little serious difficulty by a man who is willing to try. Most things said to be impossible are so only in the mind of the man whose timidity or inertness keeps him from making the attempt. The whole story of the establishment and growth of the United States forest service is a story of the doing of things which the men who did them were warned in advance would be impossible. Usually the thing which "cannot be done" is well worth trying.—Gifford Pinchot.

Eccentric Place Names.

There are one or two place names in England which for eccentricity it would be hard to beat. Cornwall boasts of a village called Drunkards All and of a tithing called London Apprentice. The name of another Cornish village, Grumza, sounds worse when spoken than it looks in print. The same may be said of the neighboring village of St Erval, which is pronounced "Sandeval." Bishop Philpotts asked a candidate for ordination where he came from. "St. Erval," was the reply. "Dear me," remarked the bishop, "I know that Cornishmen venerate St. Ruby, St. Coby, St Uny and other saints unknown to the calendar, but I was not aware that he had enrolled the devil."—London Mirror.

A Generous Empress.

It is said that one morning at breakfast a general related to Napoleon III the misfortunes of a brother officer, who, "because he had not 15,000 francs, must be dishonored." While the emperor questioned further Eugenie flew to her room and, returning with a package of banknotes, said: "Take them, general, and never tell me his name." And his name the generous empress never knew.

Too Much Paint.

He—What is [illegible] talk about. Mrs [illegible]? She—Why, she engaged [illegible] the artist to paint her, and when he arrived for the first sitting he declined to complete a job that [illegible] already been half finished.—Cincinnati Inquirer.

A Little Help Wanted.

Old Plantation—Young man, you must remember that there's always room at de top of de ladder. Applicant for job—Um! Would you mind giving me boost, so I can see for myself?

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Bad Combinations With Meat.

Dr. Fenton B. Turck says that "the use of meat has been shown [illegible] or intestinal autointoxication; hence many advise total abstinence from the eating of meat." When meat is eaten alone or with a food that is nearly compatible, such as bread, the results are less undesirable than when eaten with a meal consisting largely of fruits, green vegetables, rice or milk, since these foods, being digested principally in the intestine, hasten the passage of the meat from the stomach where it is best digested. Peas, for instance, require [illegible] in the stomach; rice, milk and [illegible] uncooked cabbage, toast [illegible] require less than two hours, so that such a combination would not be as good as a larger quantity of beef or pork with bread alone.

Fighting the Fly.

An excellent remedy for the fly pest is formaldehyde. The correct strength may be secured by adding three teaspoonfuls of the concentrated formaldehyde solution to a pint of water. The solution should be kept in such a way that the flies can drink it. A good way is to take an ordinary thin walled tumbler and fill it part full of the solution. Place on a saucer or small plate a piece of white blotting paper and cut it to the size of the dish. Then place it over the glass and turn the glass bottom up on the dish. As the solution disappears the saucer the tumbler should be slightly raised up, so that the liquid will again flow over the entire surface.

Another simple remedy to keep flies out of the house is by means of an odor unpleasant to flies. Any odor pleasing to man is offensive to the fly and will drive them away, as, for instance, oil of lavender, diluted; geranium, mignonette or heliotrope.

Cows' Milk and Casein.

It has been proved that casein, which forms over 3 per cent of the total weight of cows' milk, is an important commercial product and may be profitably employed in the manufacture of glue combs, buttons, linoleum, hairpins, toys, paints and even shoe polish.

In the preparation of casein for commercial purposes about 700 gallons of skimmilk are put into a great vat and heated to about 135 degrees F. Then very dilute sulphuric acid is added to precipitate the casein or curd. The whey is drawn off, and the curd is drained and cut into chunks, after which streams of cold water are played on it to wash out the acid. The curd is then dried with rotary fans and ground into powder, in which form it is placed on the market. One hundred pounds of skimmilk will yield about three and one half pounds of casein powder.—Popular Science Monthly.

Value of Thunderstorms.

"Thunderstorms," says Professor Ward in Science, "bring us much that is of benefit. To them we owe much, in parts of our country even most of our spring and summer rainfall. Without these beneficent thunderstorms our great staple crops east of the Rocky mountains would never reach maturity. One good thunderstorm over a considerable area at a critical crop stage is worth hundreds of thousands of dollars to American farmers. Our stock markets time and again show the favorable reaction of such conditions upon the price of cereals and also of railroad and other stocks. Thundershowers break our summer droughts, cleanse our dusty air, refresh our parched earth, replenish our failing streams and brooks, bring us cool evenings and nights after sultry and oppressive days."

Kindergartens.

"The first kindergartens in our country," said an educator, "were conducted for the children of the well to do. The remarkable value of this training for the children of the poor was soon recognized, and mission kindergartens became numerous. Then the more progressive cities and towns tried them experimentally in their public schools. That their worth has been abundantly proved is clearly shown by the spread of the kindergarten, and the general introduction of kindergarten training departments into state normal schools and city training schools.

"At present 1,228 cities have an aggregate of 8,463 kindergartens in their public schools, with an enrollment of 454,660 children."

A Browning Face.

"A nasty jolt," said Senator Penrose at the Philadelphia club, discussing a political betrayal; "a nasty and an unexpected jolt. It reminds me of the octogenarian banker who said to Gobsa Golde:

"'Your beautiful girl wife declares that your face is like a poem.'

"'Yes?' Gobsa chuckled. 'Have a cigar. So my wife says my face is like a poem, does she?'

"'Yes,' answered the banker, with a loud, harsh laugh. 'She says your face is like a poem by Browning because it's got so many deep lines.'"—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Man and Pie.

"Pie is all you need give any man for dessert," said Mrs. Helen E. McLane, the food expert. "He thinks that pie is all there is to dessert anyway, and the more you give him of it the better he likes it. So give it to him, but be sure to give him the best, most nourishing kinds of pie for there is a great difference.

"Mince pie is the best because it has more food value. But it is also the most expensive. Prune pie properly draped and trimmed is a favorite with my men, and they know good pie when they see it."—Exchange.

Effective Threat.

"Having any more trouble with that temperamental ingenue?"

"No," replied the manager. "I contrived to get hold of a photograph of her son, who is now thirty-six years old, and the last time she got huffy I threatened to show it to a newspaper man."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

A Common Economic Mistake.

The type of man who feels he has discharged his obligations as a husband when he provides his wife with a place to do housework for her board is not uncommon.—Topeka Capital.

No Reason Assigned.

Vicar (at village Red Cross concert)—Miss Jones will sing again "I Can not Tell You Why."—London Opinion.

MORE DONATIONS FOR THE RED CROSS

The Charleroi Chapter of the Red Cross was the recipient o nThursday of two generous cash donations, which were very much appreciated by the officials of the organization. The first came from a committee of young men of Dunlevy who through John Barrass contributed $16.05 as the result of a benefit dance held at that place a few days ago.

The second donation came from Miss Mary M. Crouch of 510 Fifth street, who turned over a check for $23.00 to the Red Cross, the amount she had received as a special dividend on some industrial stock she held.

The treasury was further enriched this morning by a contribution of $3.55 from Misses Lois E. Jacobs, Celeste O'Hara and Evelyn Warrenford, of Crest avenue who raised the money from a small refreshment stand which they had in charge during the past few days.

SECOND STREET BATHING BEACH BANNED BY BOARD

The Board of Health has issued warnings against any and all bathing in the Monongahela river below Second street. Notices to this effect have been posted in that vicinity and the orders of the Board will be strictly enforced. This point has been quite a popular spot for a number of bathers but the proximity of a sewer makes it particularly undesirable. It is believed that one case of typhoid fever has resulted from bathing at that point, and the Board of Health does not propose to take any more chances. All bathers are therefore advised to take warning and not violate the rule laid down by the local officials.

The Fireless Cooker.

The fireless cooker has come to stay. Its usefulness is no longer a question, but a fact. It is one of the domestic conveniences and, unlike many of them, it does not keep right on costing after it is purchased. It is used and the cost is ended. It does not get out of repair unless greatly abused. It does save fuel bills and labor. It cooks many things better than they can be cooked in any other way.

There are many kinds of fireless cookers on the market. In choosing among them one may select the kind best adapted for the particular conditions in which it is to be used, and the space in the kitchen which it is to occupy. Of course a factory made cooker is best, but any one who cannot afford to buy one will find it worth while to use a home made one. A person with only a little mechanical skill, by following the directions which can be procured from the department of agriculture at Washington, can make a cooker that will fulfill most of the needs.—Woman's Home Companion.

Kissing the Black Stone.

As well die a Jew or a Christian as not make the pilgrimage to Mecca, said Mohammed, and no obligation of Islam is more piously discharged. It is believed that the ritual connected with the visit to the Ka'aba—the "square building"—and the kissing of the black stone go back to days of idolatry, the "time of ignorance" before the new faith bloomed.

The black stone, which measures about six inches by eight, is believed to have fallen from paradise, to have been guarded during the deluge and handed to Abraham by Gabriel when the Ka'aba was built. Certain parts of the ceremonial—the throwing of stones at the devil and the imitation of Hagar's distracted wanderings in the desert—are supposed to have had significance for the pre-Mohammedan times as well as for Islam.—London Chronicle.

Sailors' Signs.

Strange signs frequently hang from ships which puzzle even dwellers in seaport towns. A basket slung from the mainmast head is a sailor's sign to notify that the cargo has been loaded or discharged, as the case may be, and that the ship is ready to start on her next trip.

A generally mysterious emblem is a broom lashed to a mainmast or bridge railing. This is to signify that the vessel is for sale.

Occasionally a dark blue stripe may be seen running fore and aft on a vessel. As a matter of fact, this is a sign of recent bereavement. Blue is the sailor's mourning, and the stripe of this color takes the place of the black margin or band used by the landsman as a notification of death.—Exchange

The Sundial.

The sundial is an instrument of great antiquity, for it is referred to in the Bible (Isaiah xxxviii. 8), and it has been estimated that the date of this sundial would be about 700 years before the beginning of the Christian era.

The first sundial of which history distinctly tells us is that of the Chaldean astronomer Berossus, who probably lived about 300 B. C.

Then and for many years afterward the art of constructing sundials to suit any place and situation was an important branch of mathematical study.

The sundial as invented by this Berossus remained in use for many centuries, four of these having been found in Italy in modern times. One which was discovered at Tivoli in 1746 is believed by some to have belonged to Cicero.

Very Funny.

Tommy—Do you go to bed very early, Mrs. Peck?

Mrs. Peck—Yes, Tommy, sometimes—when I feel tired.

"You wouldn't go so early if you were married to my father, would you?"

"Oh, Tommy, you funny boy! Why not?"

"'Cause my father told mother that if he were your husband he'd make you sit up!"—Exchange.

Mean Comment.

Grace—Don't tell anybody for the world. See this ring? George slipped it on my finger last night. Ethel—Yes, it's nice looking, but it will make a black circle round your finger before you've worn it a week. It did mine.—London Tit-Bits.

The Jury.

Citizen—What possible excuse did you fellows have for acquitting the murderer? Juryman—Insanity. Citizen—What! The whole twelve of you

PRACTICAL HEALTH HINT.

Proper Posture.

A proper position of the body is a greater factor in maintaining good health than is generally realized. A simple test suggested for discovering whether the carriage of a child is correct is the passing of one's hand over its back when it happens to be standing naturally and easily. If the ends of the shoulder blades can be felt it is proof that the child is not standing correctly. The habit of standing on one foot should be corrected at once, as it causes one hip to grow out more than the other, while a common fault in walking is that of carrying the head a little to one side. When sitting the head and back should always be drawn up and the body never allowed to loll.

MAY GET LIST OF QUOTAS NEXT WEEK

Dispatches from Harrisburg Friday night indicated that the official quotas for the 282 exemption districts of the state would be made known early in the coming week. Allowances is to be made for guardsmen who have enlised since the conscription act was passed to their home districts, not the districts in which the guard unit headquarters are.

Young me nare urged to make sure of the time they are called for examination. The district boards are not responsible for the failure of notices to arrive.

Don't Be a Slacker.

Pay your school and borough taxes in August. 42-t2

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Wingett and daughter Margaret of Wilmerding are visiting at the home of Mrs. H. Wingett on Washington avenue.

ADDITIONAL BOILER AT THE PUMPING STATION

The additional boiler which will be used at the water works, until the new ones are installed, arrived at the pumping station Friday evening, and is now being put in readiness for service. For the past two days only one boiler has been in commission, which has reduced the pumping power of the plant materially, but with the addition of this extra boiler it is expected to keep the pumps going in good shape. The cool spell of weather is materially helping the situation as people are not so lavish in the use of water during the present temperature as when the mercury is soaring in the nineties.

MANY PETITIONS BEING RECEIVED

Eighty petitions have been received by the county commissioners from persons desiring that their names be placed on the official ballot as candidates for office to be voted for at the September primaries. From now on until August 22 the date of expiration for filing petitions, it is expected they will come in rapidly from all parts of the county.

For the first time since the present ballot laws went into operation, the commissioners are giving receipts to each person seeking nomination on the filing of each separate petition. In case the petition comes in by mail the receipts is sent by mail to the candidate, a duplicate being kept of each in the office.

Each township and borough is required to give notice to the commissioners of the vacancies in each respective district, by death, resignation or otherwise, of persons holding office and report the same information in common with the offices to be filled for the full erm but the law in a great measure has been disregarded. Several days ago the commissioners gave instruction to their clerk to send a letter to each school board secretary and to the secretaries of road supervisors as well as to secretaries of borough councils, requiring them to submit at once the offices to be filled, whether for a full term or otherwise, as only by this means will the commissioners be able to make out the ballots for the primary election.

TRUCK KNOCKS STREET CAR FROM THE TRACK

A big motor truck owned by the Macbeth-Evans company and driven by Edgar Hays, collided with a West-side trolley car at Eighth street and Fallowfield avenue, shorty after 5 o'clock Friday evening. The truck was coming down Eighth street loaded with coal while the car was coming up Fallowfield avenue. Evidently there was a misunderstanding between the truck driver and the street car motorman for both of them tried to occupy the same spot with their particular vehicle at the same moment. However the experiment failed to work and the truck crashed into the car, knocking it from the track, and doing it considerable damage. The wrecking crew was called to the scene and took the car to the barns. It is said it will take several days to make the necessary repairs. The truck, like the little old Henry, [illegible] right along.
